Our set-up is quite flexible and the channel list shown here is simply our regular setup. We bring our own rack unit containing a mixer and rack DIs. All signals come out the back of our rack. Depending on the needs of the gig and preference of the engineer, we can provide parts on separate channels through the DIs in our rack unit.

The loop channels are ones where we record a loop in real-time and the result can be fed down separate channels. This allows mixing of the loop channels independent of the input source. Channels 1 and 2 are the main parts of the track fed from the mixer (drums, bass, keys etc.). We require a mic and mic stand from the venue.

If you have any questions on our set-up, feel free to contact us at info@flyingwithpenguins.co.uk – 07970078334.
